THE DEAD SENATOR

Stanford's Death Was Not Unexpected

BY THOSE WHO KNEW HIM

His Decline Has Been Noticeable for Several Years—Funeral Arrangements.

MENLO PARK, June 21.—The first tidings of Senator Stanford's death which reached the outside world were sent by an Associated Press correspondent from the little town of Menlo but a few minutes after it was discovered that the Senator had breathed his last.

Owing to the hour and the meagre telegraphic facilities it was impossible to obtain any of the details last night. Friends of Senator Stanford's family received the sad news through the morning papers.

This morning, at 4.24, a special train bearing Charles Lathrop, Mrs. Stanford's brother, left San Francisco, arriving here at 5.35. A carriage awaited him at the station which drove rapidly to the Stanford residence, which is situated about a mile and a half from the station.

From an early hour this morning telegraphic messages of sympathy have poured in upon Mrs. Stanford. Each incoming train was filled with personal friends, Southern Pacific railway officers and those who have been intimately associated with the Senator in his many affairs.

Five high Southern Pacific officers were among those who arrived on the 10.40 train from San Francisco—Manager A. N. Towne, J. A. Fillmore, H. E. Huntington, Auditor and Controller Housing and Mr. Schwerin.

Mr. Huntington said in reply to an inquiry that since the Senator's severe attack in Washington his death has been among the probabilities each day, although it was thought by all his friends that he might survive for years. It was known that he never would resume his activity in railway affairs, and it was known that he would resign his seat in the United States senate unless the Republican party needed him.

Stephen Gage, who came in on an early train, learned first of the Senator's death from newspapers.

Charles Crocker, who received a telegram early this morning, came on an early train with Rev. Fote of Grace church.

J. M. Daggett, superintendent of the mint, was also among the friends at Palo Alto.

A profound hush and sadness has settled over the beautiful grounds and buildings, and black crape hangs from the door knob.

The body of the Senator lies in his bedroom up stairs. A peaceful smile is on his face, which has a peculiarly life-like appearance.

Mrs. Stanford, with her brother and niece, Mrs. E. R. Taylor, are still keeping vigil at the bedside.

At 12 the embalmers arrived and the body was embalmed.

THE DEATH.

The Senator retired at 10, feeling better than usual. At 12.05 his old and trusted valet, Edward Languy, who for some time had visited the Senator's room at different times during the night, went in. He heard a gasp, and seeing something was wrong, gave the alarm, first to Mrs. Stanford, then to his private secretary, Mr. Nash. When Mrs. Stanford reached the room her husband had breathed his last.

Mr. Nash at once sent for a local physician, but there was nothing left for medical skill. Death had resulted immediately from heart failure.

Mrs. Stanford, though overcome by the shock, bears up wonderfully, and moves about directing all arrangements with wonderful firmness.

The only time she was entirely prostrated was when she left the body in charge of those who are to perform the last offices.

TELEGRAMS OF CONDOLENCE.

Telegrams of condolence continue to pour in from all sources, and those in the west particularly are profuse in expressing sympathy.

Many clerks of the Southern Pacific have arrived, anxious to perform the smallest offices. One of them said to an Associated Press correspondent that "all the clerks felt that they had lost a great friend. In him we had one always ready to listen to us. He was the last court of appeal and was a very merciful court."

Men about the place to the smallest stable boy feel that they have lost a personal friend.

The Senator's will, which was drawn up at the time the college at Palo Alto was built, is now in the hands of Wilson, his attorney, and its contents can only be a matter of conjecture.

Cause of Death.

MENLO PARK, June 21.—Dr. Holland, the physician who was called to the side of the deathbed was seen by a representative of the Associated Press. He said:

"The immediate cause of death was paralysis of the heart. I have no doubt," continued the doctor, "that the last treatment which he resorted to—I refer to the hot water treatment—was of the greatest benefit. I know it to be a fact that Senator Stanford had during the past two years tried many doctors of many schools, among which were massage, faith cure and spiritualist advocates, but the Senator's days were numbered and no earthly skill could have averted the end."

The Funeral.

MENLO PARK, June 21. — Arrangements for the funeral of Senator Stanford are all completed, and will doubtless meet with the approval of Mrs. Stanford.

She has seen no one today but her brother, Charles Lathrop, her neice, Mrs. Taylor, and Stephen M. Gage.

The services will take place on Saturday at the chapel at Palo Alto University. They will be very simple.

While recently in Europe the senator, who was always a staunch friend of railway engineers, requested that when his pall bearers were selected they should consist of a number of engineers, selected from those longest in the employ of the Southern Pacific Railway Company.

His request is to be honored, and of the twenty pall bearers, eight are to be engineers.

Expressions of sympathy continue to come in in great numbers from friends in all parts of the country, among them telegrams from Senators Dolph, Mitchell, Saunders, McPherson, McTreggory, Whitelaw Reid and D. O. Mills.

Stanford's Wealth.

SAN FRANCISCO, June 21.—A careful estimate of the late Senator Stanford's property indicates that its value is somewhere in the neighborhood of $35,000,000. The estate consists in a large part of one-fourth the shares of the Pacific Improvement Company, a legal association through which Stanford, Huntington, Hopkins (Searles) and Crocker own and control the Southern Pacific Company. Its nominal assets in the way of railroad property amount to $210,000,000, but the actual value is about $20 per share, or $42,000,000, of which Stanford's holdings are worth $10,000,000.

Besides this the Pacific Improvement Company owns a large block of Southern Pacific bonds on which there is an interest of 5 and 6 per cent annually. Stanford's share of these bonds is said to be $14,000,000 net.

From stocks and bonds alone the Stanford estate is said to receive an income of nearly $1,000,000 annually.

Then there is the San Francisco cable road property that pays 10 per cent annually on $12,000,000, of which Stanford's share is $3,000,000. He leaves 100,000 acres of land, including the great Vina vineyard, and other real estate worth $5,000,000, and other personal property worth $1,000,000, making the aggregate value of his estate about $35,000,000, on which there is an annual income of perhaps $3,000,000.

Markham Overcome.

CHICAGO, June 21.—The first intimation Governor Markham had of the death of Senator Stanford was a telegram which he recived at 12.30 this afternoon. He, with a friend, was in a room at the California state building at the World's Fair at the time. The shock was so startling that for a moment he was completely overcome.

A little later a representative of the Associated Press called to see the Governor and asked him if he had anything to say as to who would succeed Stanford. The Governor refused to be seen by any reporters of the press on that or any other subject this afternoon. He sent word by his secretary that he was too much overcome by the sad news to think of talking for publication.

"Senator Stanford was one of my dearest personal friends," he said, "and it would be heartless in me to even have any thoughts at this time as to his successor. Stanford was one of California's ablest public men, and for the present I will have nothing to express either publicly or privately as to who will succeed him."

The Governor refused to see any callers save personal friends and officials of California.

Surprise in Washington.

WASHINGTON, June 21.—The news of Senator Stanford's death was received in Washington with some degree of surprise, although all his friends knew his advanced age and feeble health augured his demise within no very great period.

Stanford's last visit to Washington was in April. He was very feeble, seemingly on the verge of dissolution. He called on President Cleveland at that time, and a number of congressmen who saw him at the White House sorrowfully predicted the end as not far off.

For several years Stanford had been so feeble that he required the assistance of a servant to enable him to move about. Rheumatism, added to the debility of old age, caused him much suffering.

Two years ago he went abroad to try the medical waters of European health resorts, and returned to America apparently in better health. Since then he has traveled a great deal between California and Washington, accompanied always by his devoted wife, but his feebleness increased noticeably.

Notwithstanding his condition his death at this time was unexpected and caused something of a shock to those who knew him.

Senator Dolph of Oregon, the only member of congress from the Pacific coast in town, said this afternoon it would be impossible for the congressional committee to reach Palo Alto in time for the funeral, and he thought Vice President Stevenson would designate Senator Mitchell and such other senators now on the coast to attend the funeral in behalf of the senate. It is probable this action will be followed by Speaker Crisp when he learns of Senator Stanford's death.

His Hospitality.

WASHINGTON, June 21.—Senator and Mrs. Stanford's life in this city was naturally a very prominent one. After Mrs. Stanford had laid aside deep mourning for the loss of her son she entertained every winter in the most elaborate style.

Her dinners were always notable events, and perhaps no banquet in this city ever exceeded the elegance of the dinner given in honor of President and Mrs. Harrison.

The preparations made for Mrs. Stanford's afternoon receptions each winter were no less marked. The humblest visitor was made as welcome as the most favored, and the resources of the entire establishment were at the pleasure of the great throngs who always came.

His Benevolence.

WASHINGTON, June 21.—Of Senator Stanford's magnificent gifts in the cause of education and charity it is safe to say that he never refused an appeal and frequently gave much more than was asked.

Stanford, in all the great undertakings which accumulated for him such immense wealth, never started any project, no matter how important or simple, without talking it over with his wife. Both of them were serious minded and both full of good will and benevolence in managing the riches intrusted to them.

Stevenson's Condolence.

MEMPHIS, June 21.—Vice President Stevenson, who passed through here this morning en route to Little Rock, was informed of the sudden death of Senator Stanford of California. He at once telegraphed his condolence to the widow, and also telegraphed the sergeant-at-arms of the senate to make the necessary preparation for formal action by that body.

No Stock Jobbery.

CHICAGO, June 21.—The Daily News Washington special says: "Whenever you hear a rumor of my sudden death discredit it as such rumors have been circulated about me. They are employed by stock jobbers."

Such was the injunction which Senator Stanford recently gave his private secretary, John McCarthy. McCarthy had received no information from Palo Alto of the Senator's death up to 1.30 p. m. "Yet," said he, "I have no doubt it is true and that his sudden death was from heart disease."

IN HONOR OF STANFORD.

Flags on the Railroad Buildings at Half Mast.

The following general order has been issued by the Southern Pacific Railroad to its employes:

SAN FRANCISCO, June 21.

To the officials and employes of the Southern Pacific Company:

It becomes my painful duty to announce to you the sudden death of the Hon. Leland Stanford, which occurred at Palo Alto at midnight, and as a mark of respect to the memory of one of the founders of this great property, whose life has been devoted to its interests from the beginning, it is ordered that flags be displayed at half mast on the steamers and on the principal buildings of the company until after the funeral shall have taken place, the hour of which you will be later advised, when all the company's business not inconsistent with public demands will be suspended.

A. N. TOWNE,
General Manager.

Used the Money.

SAN FRANCISCO, June 21.—Rev. Rodney Edwards, superintendent of the Old People's Home, and formerly assistant rector of Trinity church, one of the largest Episcopal congregations in this city, was this afternoon indicted by the grand jury for embezzlement. He is accused of misappropriating a deposit of $3000 made with him as trustee by Mrs. Allen, an inmate of the home. Edwards is supposed to have devoted the money to real estate speculations and lost it.

Was Photographed.

VISALIA, June 21.—The mother of John Soutag arrived last night from Minnesota.

Evans had his photograph taken today and it will be placed on sale to raise money for family needs.

The two bandits will be removed to the lower floor of the jail tomorrow, and when further recovered will be taken to Fresno for trial.

No Need of Worrying.

E. Eppinger, the grain buyer of San Francisco, was at the New Depot hotel last night, and in speaking of the effect of the financial flurry upon the moving of the grain crop, said that the people need not worry over the situation, as good sense and business brain would prepare a way out of the difficulty.

Twenty-eight special pension examiners have been let out. All were Republicans.

ROBBED THE DEAD.

TERRIBLE WORK AT THE PARKVILLE WRECK.

Ghouls Get Away With the Body of a Dead Man and Several Thousand Dollars.

NEW YORK, June 21.—Although no other victims of yesterday's railroad disaster at Parkville have died, Andrew J. Bartholmew is not expected to live. The other wounded are reported as doing well and will recover.

It appears that some of the victims of the accident were robbed and body, Judge Quimby of Utica, N.Y., who had $6000 in his possession, has entirely disappeared. Quimby was seen in an express wagon and a doctor with an ambulance offered to take him, but the man in the wagon said he was a doctor and was going to take Quimby to the Norwegian hospital. He never arrived there and the coroner is trying to find the body.

William B. Hutchinson of Chicago, who was killed, had several thousand dollars in his possession, but when the body reached the morgue only $125 were found.

TELEGRAPHIC BREVITIES.

The panicky feeling has subsided in Riverside.

Four people were burned to death in a five-story building at Duluth.

Lightning struck a circus tent filled with people at River Falls, Wis., and eight were killed and a score or more injured.

May Simpson, a 17-year-old servant in the employ of Dr. A. J. Wood of Modesto, shot herself because she was in love and had fallen.

Anarchists blew up the house of ex-Prime Minister Castillo at Madrid yesterday. Several people were killed and injured. Great excitement prevails.

Flint Logan shot Etta Walker while she was on the steps of her mother's house at Sacramento. He then shot himself. Neither shot will proval fatal.

A fire at Gibson, N.B., destroyed property valued at $2,000,000, consisting of eighty dwellings, six stores, two churches, railway station and roundhouse.

At Sacramento Manuel and Richard Strybe were sentenced to twenty years' imprisonment for robbing and poisoning to death A. J. Damon of Eldorado county two years ago.

An English woman, Miss Sprules, has for many years conducted a distillery of famous lavender in Surrey. It is much esteemed, and she gives employment directly and indirectly to a large number of people.

The executors of the estate of Mrs. Mary Jeannette Kenney of Hartford have been instructed to make certain gifts in her name and memory to the amount of between $200,000 and $300,000.

NO CAPITAL REMOVAL

Judge Grant Decides in Sacramento's Favor

AND AGAINST SAN JOSE

The Case Will Be Appealed to the Supreme Court for a Final Decision.

WOODLAND, June 21.—Judge Grant has prepared and will tomorrow file his decision in the state capital removal case of Livermore vs. Secretary of State White. His judgment is in favor of Livermore and therefore of Sacramento.

The plaintiff sought to restrain the secretary of state from printing the state capital resolution on the regular ballots to be voted on at the next regular election, on the ground of irregularity and unconstitutionality.

The decision turns upon the point that the action of the legislature is not in accordance with the constitutional amendment to be regularly framed and presented to the people for their ratification or rejection, should be by bill, regularly introduced and passed by the assembly and senate and not by concurrent resolutions. The state capital resolution passed by the state legislature for removal to San Jose is therefore void, in the opinion of Judge Grant, and he so decides.

The finding will be filed in the superior court of Sacramento tomorrow. No doubt the case will be appealed to the supreme court.

FOURTH OF JULY.

The Ladies of the G.A.R. Take the Matter in Hand.

In pursuance to a call about twenty-eight ladies of the G.A.R. and others met last night to discuss the manner of celebrating the Fourth of July.

Mrs. Oaks was appointed president of the day and the following committees were appointed:

On music, Dr. McIntosh; on finance, Mesdames Forest, Combs, Parish, McIntosh, Van Tassel, Merwin and Quinn; on program, Mesdames McIntosh, Quinn, Richardson, Mead, Oakes and Cornelia Noble; on arrangements, Mesdames Mead and Eastabrook.

The next meeting will be on Saturday evening at room 13, Pleasant View house, to which all patriotic ladies are cordially invited. Contributions to the fund are respectfully solicited, and can be paid to any of the ladies of the finance committee, or to J. F. Noble, treasurer, at the office of A. Weilheimer.

RUINOUS RUNS

CAUSE MANY BANKS TO CLOSE THEIR DOORS.

Nearly $1,000,000 Arrives in Los Angeles to Tide the Houses Over.

LOS ANGELES, June 21.—Four banks closed their doors here this morning. They are the First National, the Southern California, Broadway bank and East Side bank. All ascribe the same cause—stringency of the money market and inability to realize cash at once from their resources.

Depositors are assured that they will be paid in full.

The suspensions created much excitement and great crowds gathered in the streets. Runs were made upon the Farmers and Merchants' and the Los Angeles. The former paid all depositors promptly, but the latter announced that it would pay only small depositors and give certificates payable in sixty days for the remainder.

The First National bank announces that it closed because $600,000 had been withdrawn in two days. Assets exceed liabilities by $500,000.

The Broadway is a small bank.

Statements of other banks are not obtainable. All will probably resume payment.

A careful review of the situation at the close of business today indicates that the financial atmosphere is clearing. The arrival of a large amount of coin from the north, aggregating $250,000, and the announcement that $500,000 more would arrive today had reassuring effect. The Farmers and Merchants bank will receive $600,000 additional in the morning and it will open its doors with over $1,000,000 in coin in its vaults, which, it is believed, will be more than enough to meet all demands. It is estimated that about $3,000,000 has been withdrawn from the banks during the present crises, and so far not a single failure of a merchant has been reported.

San Diego—Shortly before noon the Consolidated National bank closed its doors, and also the Savings Bank of San Diego, which is in the same room. A notice over both doors says it is due to a steady withdrawal caused by the panic prevailing throughout the country and inability to realize on securities; that assets are much larger than liabilities, and that depositors can lose nothing.

Continued runs caused the First National bank to close at 1.30. The Bank of Commerce is standing the pressure well.

Anaheim—The Bank of Anaheim closed at noon. Depositors will be paid in full.

A SELMA man has imported some edible frogs and placed them in a small lake on his farm, and will permit nature to take her course. The froggery will be run for profit as well as the pleasure of listening to the mellow and musical notes of the amphibian songsters.

THE Mariposa Gazette has entered upon the thirty-ninth year of its publication. The Gazette is now edited by Mrs. Reynolds, a plucky and industrious woman, and notwithstanding the decadence of the county the Gazette maintains its standing as an excellent local paper.

EX-CONGRESSMAN DUNN of Arkansas has earned some notoriety by expressing something akin to sorrow because the Ford theater building was not occupied by pensioners when it collapsed. The Arkansaw gentleman's idea of reforming the pension business is a little too radical to meet with widespread approval. They would prefer to begin retrenchment by cutting off the per diem received from the government by such people as Dunn. Mr. Cleveland will probably make a note of the public feeling in this respect.

LOS ANGELES is the latest victim of the foolish fad known as making a run on the banks, and as a consequence four of the prominent banks of that city were yesterday compelled to close their doors. It is stated that all these institutions are perfectly solvent, and will be able to again resume business. Their inability to meet the demands of depositors was solely due to the sudden and general stringency in the money market, and the impossibility of securing coin upon ample security. These being the facts, the trouble is solely due to the unwise and unnecessary alarm of depositors, whose funds were as perfectly secure as at any time during the past. The effect of this will be to jeopardize business solvency in general in Los Angeles, and to impair the financial standing of the city abroad.

COMMISSIONER MILLER has prepared a statement which shows that the total sugar bounty for the fiscal year ending June 30th will be $9,403,889. The amount actually paid is as follows: On cane sugar, $8,687,594; on beet sugar, $531,363; on sorghum sugar, $19,817; on maple sugar, $60,119. Total, $9,309,293. The wheat growers are selling their product below the cost of production. Why not give them a bounty? Ten million dollars would help them marvelously.—Expositor.

The result of sugar bounty has been to give a great impetus to the establishment of the sugar industry in this country and to very materially decrease the price of sugar to consumers, a benefit which is shared by the wheat grower as well as other classes. The trouble with wheat growing is that it is already too well established in this country; in other words, that too many people are engaged in it to render it profitable. What is wanted is more land devoted to the production of sugar and other new industries and less to the production of wheat.

THERE are a good many staunch Democratic papers on the Pacific Coast which are not pleased with the evident intention of the administration to practically nullify the Geary law until such time as congress has the opportunity to take another whack at it. In its issue of yesterday the Stockton Mail says on this subject:

"We are in a peculiar situation with respect to the Chinese question. As Cleveland said in his famous tariff message to congress, it is a condition and not a theory that confronts us. We have at last, after years spent in tentative efforts and in enlightening the Eastern mind, a peaceful and legal method for getting rid of the Chinese, but seemingly the executive arm of the government is paralyzed, and we are without means, and apparently there is not the least disposition on the part of the Washington authorities to enforce the remedy. We hear nothing whatever from the President or the treasury department as to when the machinery of the Geary act will be set in motion.

"The apathy of the administration on the Chinese question is peculiarly interesting to Californians at this juncture. A sorrowing wail comes up from 2000 San Francisco women who have been thrown out of employment by the closing of the dives. The employment of women in these dives has an intimate relation with the Chinese question. The person best qualified to speak on these cognate subjects is Chief of Police Crowley. This officer states emphatically, and furnishes evidence to back up his assertion, that all the dive women are not bad. The Chinese, he says, have driven them out of bread-winning positions, and the only way to reinstate them is to deport the Chinese. This is the only practical suggestion with reference to the dive women matter that we have heard. Chief Crowley does not state what will become of the dive women in case the Chinese hold their footing, but what he did say was uttered by another person. This other person declares that he does not see what the unemployed dive women are to do unless they all become bad—giving as a reason for his conclusion that the places which they ought to fill are occupied by Chinese. Evidently there are a good many things about the Chinese question which the President does not understand, and of which he does not seem anxious to acquire knowledge. The President has been conspicuous, both in his private and public capacity, as an advocate of the strict enforcement of the law, but he seems to have lost his grip on the Chinese business. If we might receive an assurance that the law would be enforced at a specified time—or if we were let into the secret as to why action is deferred—it would help us a good deal. It is the growing belief that the law is not be enforced at all that is causing so much disquietude.

LELAND STANFORD.

The death of Senator Leland Stanford ends the career of one of the most conspicuous characters in the annals of California. His sudden death, while not unexpected by those who knew him well, comes as a shock to the people of the state. His friends can hardly realize that he was already old and his life's work of necessity nearly ended, while his enemies forget their animosities in the reflection that he died in the midst of a great and philanthropic work, the benefits of which to future generations can hardly be estimated.

This is not a time for an impartial and dispassionate criticism of his character or his work. It is too soon to estimate the value of his labor, to balance the evil with the good that he has done.

That his business methods have not always been commendable examples for those less favored, that he has done much to make politics disreputable and dangerous, that he has mistaken private interests for public duties, that he has advocated vague and impracticable schemes of legislation, and sometimes misrepresented both his party and his state, are statements that are rarely questioned even by his most ardent admirers. Yet he has done much for the state, and much to cause his name to be remembered with gratitude and in a spirit of kindness.

To his friends—and his friends were legion—he was lavish in his generosity. He never forgot the friends of early life. He distributed the patronage of office as he would distribute bounties from his purse.

He invested in many enterprises and took an interest in whatever pertained to the public welfare. He mingled with and was one of the people, whose good will he cherished, and who in turn were always charitable in judging him.

He tried in his later life to atone for the possible crime of accumulating a vast fortune by means that are not pleasant to reflect upon, by founding a great university with broad and liberal aims, and boundless in its influences for good.

Let us hope that, as his body may rest in the shadow of the monument erected in affectionate remembrance of his son, so his memory may be coupled with the good in his nature and the crowning work of his life.

SAN FRANCISCO has formally decided to make an effort to secure that mid-winter World's Fair. Now that the formality is over it is hoped that the necessary coin will be forthcoming. San Francisco has more money in her banks than any place, but she has contracted the habit of keeping it there.

THE savings banks of San Francisco contain about $100,000,000 of deposits. That is a large amount of capital to be practically idle.

LOVE'S SERVICE.

Love called to a young man winningly,
"Come; join the ranks of my company
And take the field in my service."

But the young man said: "There are other things
Than blushes and kisses and flowers and rings,
Of far more worth than your service.

"There's business and sport and pleasure and art;
Your war is mere folly, your weapon a dart;
I've no time to spare for your service."

Love turned lightly away when he heard the rebuff,
Of young volunteers there were more than enough
To fill up the ranks of his service.

But time, passing by, made clear to the man
That they are the wisest who join when they can
The worshipful ranks of Love's service.

So he offered to Love his jewels and coin;
Forgetting his age, he thought he would join
The throng who pressed to Love's service.

But Love answered lightly: "The day has gone by.
A sere autumn leaf is too old and too dry
For a garland worn in my service.

"You can buy if you like a friendly regard,
And perhaps it may seem if you try very hard
As if you were in my service.

"But the raw recruits for my household guard
I take from the young; the old are debarred
From taking the oaths of my service.

"The countersign's 'Youth.' Can you give it?" "Ah, no."
"Then right about face. You're too old and too slow
To learn the details of my service."
—C. F. Johnson in Temple Bar.

YOUR CHOICE OF

USEFUL BOOKS FREE

Subscribers to The Republican (Daily or Weekly) May Secure a Copy of Either

"The Ladies' Own Cook Book"

—OR—

"Our Family Physician"

By sending to this office the name of a new subscriber to either daily or weekly with pay for first month for daily (sixty cents) or three months seventy-five cents) for weekly.

These books are, either of them, worth many times the price of the paper, but are given away so as to increase the already large circulation of THE FRESNO MORNING REPUBLICAN and FRESNO WEEKLY REPUBLICAN.

The books are well and substantially bound, clearly printed, and are highly useful in the household.

"Our Family Physician"

Is a standard work, over 100,000 copies having been printed and sold. It was compiled and edited by H. R. Stout, M. D., a physician of more than national reputation. It is a plain, practical and reliable guide to the detection and treatment of all the diseases common to the country. Designed for use by people who have not made the practice of medicine a study or a business and who are not supposed to be familiar with technical phrases and names, but want information stated in plain English. Gives separately with every disease the treatment prescribed by each "school" and full and explicit directions for nursing the sick, preparation of food for the sick, etc.

To know when to go after a doctor is an important thing. Nine times out of ten calling one is a useless expense, while failing to call one at the proper time may cost a life. This book contains 540 pages, bound in cloth, making an ornamental, as well as useful, addition to any library.

"The Ladies' Own Cook Book"

Is a practical and economical guide to cooking, canning, curing and preserving, including also a chapter on confectionery, showing how to make all kinds of candies, ice cream, etc., by MRS. JANE WARREN.

This book is a standard authority on cooking. It is very tastefully printed and bound in oilcloth.

A copy of either of these valuable books will be presented to any subscriber of THE REPUBLICAN, according to the terms set forth above.

Sensational Statement of Mrs. Leach.

FOOTE OBJECTS TO MR. NOURSE

Witnesses Who Were Awake and Counted Seven Shots — The Wagon Incident.

The sensation in the Heath murder trial yesterday was the statement made by Mrs. Mattie E. Leach that she saw a man who looked like W. D. Grady, the attorney, running away at full speed with his hat in his hand down K street just after she heard the shots that killed McWhirter.

The statement was received with much laughter by the prisoner's counsel and by the spectators, and Mrs. Leach herself laughed at the oddity of the idea.

Deputy Sheriff Timmons had a rest yesterday, the supply of belligerent 250-pound men having evidently been exhausted, at least for that day. Mr. Timmons is a faithful and zealous officer, but he has hardly had a fair show.

GENERAL BRYAN OFFENDED.

General Bryan of Tennessee did not appear in court yesterday. There was much speculation as to the cause of his absence, and it was learned that the General had not been accepted as one of the associate counsel for the prosecution.

The reason alleged by some who pretend to know is that General Bryan was not asked to come. He came of his own volition, and of his own motion through friendship for the dead man, without promise of a fee or reward, and had his cases in the Tennessee courts postponed for several months. The prosecution, however, did not care to have any counsel from abroad in the case, and delicately informed the General that their book was full.

It was reported that the General was very much chagrined at this decision and that he went away from the fair land of Fresno almost as angry as Mr. Foote appeared to be when he paid his disrespects to ex-Policeman Welch.

The proceedings in court yesterday were quiet and orderly, although the day was warm and well calculated to ruffle the naturally sweet and placid temper of the attorneys from San Francisco, Oakland and Sacramento. The only incident marked with more than normal heat was the rude trampling upon the dignity and the sensibilities of Judge George A. Nourse. Mr. Nourse is a good lawyer and an exemplary citizen, and it really pained the spectators to hear the abrupt and not at all respectful language applied to him by his brother professional.

But fortunately for the good and the true there is a beautiful compensation in nature, and the Judge after removing his chair from the baleful environment of the really rude Mr. Foote found himself in the vicinage of a pretty girl. It is feared that Mr. Foote will not henceforth be a persona grata to the Judge.

Three long benches were packed into the court room for the accommodation of lady spectators, and even then they overflowed on to the chairs in the rear of the attorneys.

Judge Holmes, after having directed the sheriff to open the court, made the following remarks:

"Before the court proceeds with this case this morning I desire to make a few remarks to the audience and to the attorneys indicative of what the course of this court will be in the proper examination of this case. The audience will keep quiet and refrain from any loud laughing or noise of any kind. They must remember that they are in the court room and not on the street, and if that thing is repeated I will have to make an order and I shall do it, only allowing a sufficient number of persons in the house to fill the seats and excluding all others.

"While the court in the examination of witnesses will give the widest latitude, I shall insist that all the witnesses on the stand, both as relates to language and manner be treated respectfully, and I hope that the attorneys will remember that and assist the court. It is the duty of the attorneys to assist the court in keeping order in the court room.

"The position of the judge is sometimes very unpleasant, and the attorneys by their manner and conduct can assist the court very much in keeping order. I hope that these remarks will be remembered and obeyed."

WELCH WANTS TO QUESTION FOOTE.

Thomas J. Welch was recalled, and Mr. Foote began with:

"Mr. Welch, have you talked with any one about this case since you were on the stand?"

The witness turned to the court and said: "Judge, I would like to ask Mr. Foote a question," but the court instructed him to answer the question. Mr. Welch said that he had not spoken with anyone concerning the case. He described the Chinaman as a stoutly built man about an inch and a half shorter than Heath and wearing European clothing. He had seen the Chinaman often from that time and up to the time the witness left the police force.

Some time after McWhirter's death Policeman Ragsdale spoke with the witness regarding the words used by Heath to the Chinaman on that occasion.

The witness was closely examined as to what he had told Lee F. Winchell respecting what Welch knew about the killing of McWhirter. He replied that he did not remember everything that was said.

'TWAS AN UNDERSHIRT.

E. Gottschalk, who lives nearly opposite the McWhirter residence, on L street, was dozing, and was awakened by a pistol shot. Then there was a pause, after which he heard six or seven shots. He jumped out of bed and went to the dining room window, and heard Mrs. McWhirter screaming.

The mask was identified by the witness.

"Do you recognize it sufficiently well so as to tell the article from which it came?" asked Mr. Johnson.

"That is taken from an undershirt. There is a mark on here—'3.' All undershirts are stamped '1, 2 or 3.' It is similar to the pattern, and may be the exact pattern of some shirts that were sold in our store."

Mr. Foote objected to the foregoing answer, but the court overruled the objection.

Mr. Gottschalk said further that at 6 o'clock in the morning he found on the south side of the McWhirter residence under the bay window two boxes about the size of soap boxes, and near them in the soft soil some footprints of a human being.

NOT AN EXPERT ON LADIES' UNDERSHIRTS.

The witness had not seen any ladies' undershirts of that pattern.

"Then you have not had a very large experience," suggested Mr. Foote, and this caused the witness to smile modestly and deprecatingly. He believed it was a man's undershirt, judging from the pattern. It was rather chilly on the morning of the murder, Mr. Gottschalk being but lightly clad when he went over to the McWhirter house. There were six or seven shots. The witness estimated them as he would tell the time when he heard the clock strike, and had miscounted, or was dubious as to the number of strikes by one.

"You can't tell time as well as well as you can expert undershirts?" asked Mr. Foote with a smile.

"No, sir," responded the witness, smiling and blushing.

HEARD SEVEN SHOTS.

Wiley J. Timmin, residing at 838 O street, between Tulare and Kern, heard seven shots fired. He was awake at the time the shooting commenced. His wife was awake also, and he counted the seven shots aloud in the presence and hearing of his wife. There was an irregularity as to the time the shots were fired, but he could not say where the irregularity, was.

EIGHT SHOTS.

Lieutenant Colonel Stewart S. Wright heard eight shots. He was awake at the time of the shooting and counted them. He heard several voices crying out during the shooting, and what he supposed to be a woman's voice after the shooting. The firing was very rapid, but rather irregular and occupied less than half a minute.

He was sleeping in General Muller's house on the corner of Tuolumne and K streets at the time, and he awakened the General and they proceeded to the McWhirter residence.

A DIFFERENT CALIBER.

On the Tuesday after the shooting—the next day—he made a careful examination of the premises and saw the bullet holes already mentioned. The bullet holes in the bottom of the fence and in the closet were smaller than the others, as he found by putting a lead pencil through them. The pencil slipped very easily through the others.

"'TWAS A CALM, STILL NIGHT."

The witness quoted from that ancient and tautological ballad, "Lily Dale," when he was asked by Mr. Foote as to what kind of a night it was:

"'Twas a calm, still night," he said. "You were out at the target shooting match the other day?" asked Mr. Foote.

"Yes, sir."

"You are better at counting shots than you are at making them; aren't you?"

The Lieutenant Colonel admitted the jocular impeachment.

WHAT MRS. GRAHAM HEARD.

A good looking woman, who gave her name as Mrs. Leslie M. A. Graham, a niece of Fulton G. Berry and bookkeeper for the Grand Central laundry, said she resided on Tuolumne street between K and L streets, and was awakened by some kind of unusual noise outside in the streets—the sound of footsteps running in the street.

"Then I heard three distinct shots from a pistol. At the first shot—I thought it might be fire—and I heard a moan and some groans, and then two distinct shots. Then I heard some one crying, 'Father! Father!' and some one crying also 'Murder! Murder!' Soon after that a carriage went by."

Mr. Foote took the witness in hand for cross examination. He asked her whether she knew Dr. Watson, and she replied that she did not know him so far as she was aware of.

Detective Bury visited her a day or two after the killing, and made inquiries about the mask and whether it had not been made from any undershirts belonging to patrons of the laundry.

"Didn't you tell him that the undershirt belonged to a gambler?" asked Mr. Foote.

"No, sir."

She had talked about the case with Rev. T. H. B. Anderson and with her mother and on Tuesday with Grove L. Johnson. Mr. Anderson told her that he would inform Mr. Johnson as to what she knew—that he considered it his duty to do so. She wrote a note to Mr. Johnson, but she did not state in the note what she was about to testify to.

Mr. Johnson—Here is the note.

SKEPTICAL MR. FOOTE.

Mr. Foote—O, I understand; I don't wish it. I'm on. The counsel don't want it, because its too old. It is largely of the chestnut order. We don't propose to go into the camp of the enemy for our evidence.

"You know your uncle, Mr. Berry, is out of town today?" asked Mr. Foote.

"Yes, sir."

"That is the reason you are testifying today?"

"No, sir."

"Weren't you told by Mr. Johnson or anybody else that your evidence on this wagon question was necessary to substantiate what Dr. Watson would testify to?"

"No, sir," replied the witness positively.

She had handed the note to Judge Graham to hand to Mr. Johnson.

Mr. Johnson offered the note in evidence, and Mr. Foote objected, remarking at the same time: "The witness nor the counsel can manufacture testimony in such a way as that."

Mr. Johnson called the court's attention to the language just used by Mr. Foote.

AN UNCOMPLIMENTARY THEORY.

"My objection," said Mr. Foote, "is not that you have manufactured that note, but that this witness, for the purpose of backing up her testimony, writes a letter to Mr. Johnson, which of course will show something in favor of the witness herself, and that she wrote the note for the purpose of manufacturing testimony."

Mr. Johnson read the note as follows, after reading the printed letter head of the Grand Central hotel:

THE LETTER.

"Fresno, June 21.—Mr. Grove L. Johnson—Dear Sir: In conversing with Rev. Mr. Anderson last evening I mentioned what I heard on the night of the murder of Mr. McWhirter. Mr. Anderson said that what I heard was important testimony and asked me if I would be willing to testify. I objected, as I did not wish my notoriety, but if you want me now I am willing to tell what I heard. Yours very respectfully,

"MRS. LESLIA GRAHAM."

The note was admitted in evidence, and the witness, in response to Mr. Foote, said that she told Detective Bury that she heard three shots. She did not tell him about having heard the noise of a wagon or a carriage because she did not think that subject was of any importance whatever. That was the only reason she had for not telling the detective about it.

SEVEN SHOTS.

Mrs. Wiley J. Timmin was called after the noon recess. She heard the shots. She was awake at the time of the shooting and counted seven shots, but she could not describe the intervals between them.

J. E. Ragsdale, deputy constable and nightwatchman in Chinatown, saw Dick Heath on the Sunday night preceding the killing of McWhirter. That was about 10 o'clock at night and the witness and Policeman Welch were standing nearly on the corner of Tulare and G streets. Heath was with a Chinaman who used to stop around the store of Tuo Lee and who represented himself to be a labor agent. Four months ago this Chinaman told the witness that he was going to China, since which time the witness had not seen him. The witness did not hear what was said by either the Chinaman or Heath. It would be impossible for that Chinaman to have been here for the past four months without the witness seeing him unless he was locked in a room all the time.

"State whether or not this Chinaman left the city of Fresno after the arrest of Heath," asked Mr. Johnson.

"He left here after the arrest of Mr. Heath."

The witness, in response to a question by Mr. Foote, said that the Chinaman wore American clothing.

DETECTIVE HUME COUNTED THE SHOTS.

W. W. Cross Jr. of Visalia, son of Superior Judge Cross of Tulare county, said that on the night of the shooting he arrived on the train at about half past 2 in the morning and took a room at the Grand Central hotel with F. M. Byrd. Mr. Hume was in the room and counted the shots out aloud. The witness counted the shots mentally. Seven shots were fired. The time was according to their watches, which showed respectively 15 minutes, 19 minutes and 23 minutes after 3 o'clock in the morning.

"Were you up here on private business or public business?" asked Mr. Foote.

"I considered it private business; I was sent up here by my father."

"Didn't you come up here to consult with Mr. Hume the detective, and with F. M. Byrd, Chris Evans' brother-in-law, to secure evidence for your father against Evans and Sontag?"

The objection to this question was sustained.

"Didn't you request the counsel for the prosecution to protect you and Byrd when you would be asked to state your business here?"

"No, sir," was the reply.

"Then you won't tell us what business you were on?"

"No, sir."

DEPUTY HEARD SEVEN SHOTS.

John C. Deuel, attorney-at-law, was living on J street about 75 or 80 feet from the corner of Stanislaus street, and was in the back end of his yard near the alley, and heard distinctly seven shots fired. There was a perceptible difference between the first shot and the others. The first shot had a dull sound like a man striking a board with a hammer; the next two shots were fired very rapidly, and between the sixth and seventh shots there was a pause of about three seconds.

SEVEN SHOTS.

F. M. Byrd, brother of Mrs. Chris Evans, told about his being with W. W. Cross Jr. and Detective Hume in the Grand Central hotel, and counted seven shots. The shots were counted by all three persons. Their watches ranged from 3.15 to 3.20 o'clock. Mr. Hume counted the shots aloud.

On the cross-examination by Mr. Foote the witness said that he was a brother of Mrs. Chris Evans, and that his occupation was driver of a fire engine in Visalia.

"Are you not engaged in the business of selling copyrighted photographs of Sontag and Evans after they had been shot in the straw pile?"

"Yes, I am selling the pictures for the accommodation of some of the people here."

The witness said that he believed that Hume's business here was in connection with Sontag and Evans.

"Was it not your business here to consult with Wells-Fargo detectives about Sontag and Evans?"

This question was objected to and the objection was sustained.

"Have you seen Sontag or Evans since their capture? Have you stated to them the object of your visit to Fresno that night? Don't you know you would be afraid to tell either of them what the object of your visit here was? Did you get any money from anybody for the betrayal of Sontag and Evans to Wells-Fargo's detectives?"

All the foregoing questions were objected to by the prosecution and the objections sustained.

"Suppose, if your honor please," said Mr. Foote, "that his man was here for the purpose of betraying Sontag and Evans, one of them being his own brother-in-law. Would it not affect his credibility?"

The court ruled that the questions were improper.

A VOICELESS REMARK.

The witness wore a smile while the foregoing questions were being asked, and as he was rising from the chair Mr. Dempsey asked, "What were you trying to say?"

"I never said anything," replied Mr. Byrd. "I never made a murmur."

"O, I thought you did," remarked Mr. Dempsey.

JUDGE NOURSE OBJECTED TO.

After the witness left the stand Mr. Foote rose to his feet and inclining his head towards Judge Nourse, who sat immediately behind him, said that he didn't desire to hear any suggestions from Mr. Nourse.

"If he is one of the counsel for the prosecution," continued Mr. Foote, "he should take a seat with them, and if he is not he should sit away from here anyway. I told him yesterday that I didn't want any suggestions from him."

Judge Nourse, with surprise and indignation in his countenance, arose and remarked that he hadn't understood Mr. Foote's meaning. "I made no suggestions to you, sir; I spoke to another gentleman. But I shall move my seat, sir, in any event."

Judge Nourse thereupon moved his chair nearer to a pretty girl and Mr. Foote expressed gratification at the change.

WHAT MR. ROHRER HEARD.

W. N. Rohrer was living at the corner of Calaveras and L streets. He did not remember how many shots were fired. During the shooting he heard a man groaning as if in distress, and then he heard a woman screaming. After the first shot there was a pause and after that came two shots very close together. Then there was another pause followed by the remainder of the shots.

The witness testified before the coroner's jury that he had heard seven or eight shots and that he was not positive whether the screaming commenced before or after the shooting.

The next morning the witness saw two or three tamales in the alley about sunrise. They looked whole and good, but the witness did not remember whether there was a string around the middle of any of the tamales. They had been opened.

He had not testified about the tamales before, because he had not thought of them much. Either Mr. Walser or Mr. Johnson had asked him whether he had seen any tamales in the alley, and Mrs. McWhirter had asked him about them at the noon recess. She requested him to call at the Blasingame residence during the noon recess and he did so. Mrs. McWhirter asked him whether he was the gentleman who had been speaking about tamales. He replied that he was not, and then she asked him whether he had not seen some tamales in the alley and he replied that he had.

Some one whom he could not remember requested him to go to the district attorney's office and look over the testimony given by him at the coroner's inquest. He did so and after he had read it, either Mr. Stilwell or Mr. Walser inquired whether that was about as he had testified. That was all that they said. Nothing was said by either of them or by the witness about tamales.

ABOUT GRADY'S SIZE.

Mrs. Mattie E. Leach, attired in full Salvation Army uniform with the regulation sugar scoop bonnet and wearing a beaming smile, took the witness stand. She resides at the corner of Stanislaus and K streets. She looked out of the window when she heard the shooting, and saw a small man, about the size of W. D. Grady, running down K street from the direction of McWhirter's house.

"That settles it," said Mr. Foote," I ask that this prosecution be dismissed."

This sally provoked considerable merriment. The witness saw that he was dressed in a light or gray suit and had his hat in his hand. He was running as fast as he could run. He came through the block between Stanislaus and Calaveras and K and L streets and between two small shanties on that block. He ran down K street towards Stanislaus and she lost sight of him. He had just about time enough to get there from McWhirter's place after the shooting ceased to the time she saw him. It might have been five minutes. It didn't seem to be more than that.

A TEST OF TIME.

Mr. Johnson proceeded to test the judgment of the witness as to the time that had elapsed. Mr. Johnson held his watch and Mr. Foote held a stop watch used for timing race horses. The time indicated by the witness was forty-two seconds by Mr. Johnson's watch and fifty-two seconds by Mr. Foote's trotting chronometer.

In answer to a question by Mr. Foote the witness said that she had been a member of the Salvation Army for about six months.

"Why did you say that the man looked about the size of Grady; did you think he was W. D. Grady?" asked Mr. Foote.

"Yes; I thought it was Mr. Grady at the time."

"Don't you know," asked Mr. Foote, laughing, "that Grady was laid up with a broken leg at that time?"

The witness said that she did not know.

"Was this man assisted in his running by a pair of crutches?"

"No, sir."

Mrs. Leach added that A. D. Ward and Mr. McNutt were sleeping in her house and she awoke them.

"Is that the Mr. Ward who is known as 'Sure Shot Ward?'" asked Mr. Foote.

"He is sometimes called 'Dead Shot Ward'" was the response of the witness.

This concluded Mrs. Leach's testimony and the court adjourned until 8.30 o'clock this morning. At noon a recess will be had until 1 and the court will adjourn at 3 p.m. for the day.

COLLECTOR CONGER.

Serious Charges Made Against Him.

HIS WHEREABOUTS UNKNOWN

His Accounts Investigated and Warrants Issued for His Arrest.

An investigation has been going on for some time into the accounts and business methods of J. W. Conger, deputy internal revenue collector of this district, by Revenue Agent A. C. McLochlan and Assistant Agent B. M. Thomas.

As a result of their investigations orders were issued yesterday morning for the arrest of Conger, and Chief Deputy J. E. Youngberg and Assistant Berland took possession of everything connected with the deputy collector's office in Fresno and forwarded all the records and papers found to Collector Quinn at San Francisco.

The exact nature of the charges against Mr. Conger are not known, but it is stated that moneys collected and reports sent in do not correspond, and that the business of the office has been carelessly conducted.

Mr. Conger's family went to Pasadena some time ago, and last Friday he stated that he had received word that his child was sick and that he was going to Pasadena.

It is learned that he has not been in Pasadena nor has he been heard from. Whether he has left the country to escape imprisonment or is somewhere in the mountainous parts of his district attending to duties are matters of conjecture.

Mr. Conger was a man commanding the confidence and respect of all who knew him and it is to be hoped that he will be able to clear himself of the charges against him.

United States Marshal Gard was in the city yesterday with a warrant for his arrest and stated that one of the charges against Conger is selling cancelled stamps. He found Conger's baggage was checked to Mojave last Friday night, and he was of the opinion that he had either gone east or into Mexico. The marshal left for the south last night.

M. B. Kellogg, at present government storekeeper in this city, has received the appointment as revenue collector.

Foster Indorsed.

The Democratic county central committee met yesterday afternoon to take action with regard to the campaign in the First supervisors' district. John Doyle having failed to file petition of electors, and Mr. Pratt having withdrawn his petition on file with the county clerk, there was no one in the field.

The committee, after discussing the situation, deemed it inadvisable to make a campaign on blank tickets, and Mr. Foster, the People's Party candidate, was indorsed.

Williams, Brown & Co. sell trays on time and handle all kinds of dried fruit and raisins. *

Edelbrau.

Nothing but the finest hops and the choicest grades of California barley malt are employed in the manufacture of this famous beer.

ALFORD'S BOOMERANG

HE PROVES THAT HE OFFERED A REWARD TO A VOTER.

The Contestant Has Not Found a Peg to Hang His Case On.

The contested election case for city trustee of E. T. Alford vs. Joseph Spinney came up yesterday in department three of the superior court.

Judge Gray, of Visalia, sat at the request of Judge Welsh in the trial of this case, and expedited the business of taking evidence.

The first witness, Frank Luning, knew nothing of the case and was excused.

E. Best was called, and testified that Spinney had never promised him a situation on the police force nor asked him to vote for him. He never paid witness any money except wages for himself and wife.

He stated that he was supposed to be working for the election of Spinney during the campaign, but had furnished Alford with a list of persons to be challenged at the polls who were going to vote for Spinney.

"Alford told me that if he was elected trustee I would be superintendent of sewers." He was not re-examined by the plaintiff on that point.

Milton C. Boyd testified that he was at the time of the election a saloon keeper west of the track, but Spinney had neither hired his saloon nor deposited money with him for electioneering purposes.

J. G. Briggs testified that he was time keeper for Spinner and that no men got time for work not done. Never had any understanding with Alford as to what he would testify to.

A. Capo, proprietor of Hotel de France, stated that Spinner reduced the rent for the four summer months from $170 to $140. Never promised to reduce the rent in the event of his election.

Joe Sagnire testified that he worked in Capo's hotel and that the number of men stopping there was about the same before the election as after.

D. Imperatrice ran a lodging house in that ward and lodged fourteen men for Spinney in March.

W. R. Clarke had been away for a long time; had written to Alford to send him a ticket and he would vote for him, but did not stay to find out whether Alford sent the ticket or not.

The trial of the case will be continued this morning, and will probably occupy a couple of days more.

TWO MEDALS.

An Unsettled Dispute Concerning Their Ownership.

Robert Barton of this city, and C. Dallas of Merced, say that they won a gold and a silver medal in a bicycle race at the picnic given at the Fresno Fair grounds last Sunday, and that the committee in charge refused to deliver the medals unless the winners paid $10.

Mr. Barton says that the race for which the medals were offered as prizes did not come off, owing to the fact that the only wheelmen present were Messrs. Barton and Dallas, and that the committee promised them the medals if they would run two races, one a quarter of a mile and repeat, and the other a mile.

The committee told Messrs. Barton and Dallas that as the advertised bicycle races had not taken place, they did not think they should give up the medals unless those gentlemen paid something towards their cost.

Young Men In Politics.

Mr. Chauncey M. Depew has written for Donahoe's Magazine an article in answer to the question, "Should young men go into politics?" Mr. Depew answers no—that is, he strongly advises young men not to adopt politics as a career.

But this answer is based upon present conditions—upon the low estate in which we find American politics today. How the tone of public life is to be raised unless young men of strong and conscientious patriotism and unselfishness enter it and strive to improve it he does not tell us.

Taking things as they are, however, this passage from Mr. Depew's article is admirable:

"Every young man should be interested in politics and take as active a part in the political affairs of his neighborhood as the time at his disposal from his business will permit. He should belong to some party and understand its principles. He should attend its caucuses and do such party service as he can. He should never fail to vote on election day; when there are movements on foot for reforms necessitated by corruption or to put bad men out of office, he should be on hand and ready to fight for the redemption of his city, town or state."

The Sun Myth.

It was in Bayard Taylor's day that the sun myth had its vogue. One night at a party Taylor was greatly bored by the persistent efforts of a guest to discuss sun myths. No matter what direction the conversation might take this person would ruthlessly drag it back again to his favorite topic.

At last the distressed poet raised a very interesting question in regard to the Shrewsbury subject. "Did you ever think," he asked, "that the name Smith so common all over the world is derived from sun myths?" No one had ever dreamed of such thing. Max Muller had overlooked the point completely.

"Quite possible, certainly most plausible," said Taylor, "Sun myth, Sumyth, Smyth, Smith, and some still spell the name with a y." The discussion was ended.—Youth's Companion.

Spoiling the Romance.

"It is very well," said a leading actress, "to have nice, sentimental parts, to be cast away in a boat and come in for a share of the enthusiasm created by the great 'scenic effects,' but just consider when the scene is called for again and again, and you are kept rocking like mad for a good 20 minutes. It isn't so attractive then, to say nothing of being obliged to take a call absolutely green with seasickness, and then run down stairs to 'change' when you can't even see straight. It is like making a nightly 'fall' all through the country, on all sorts of rugs, chiefly fur ones, that are full of dust and the hair of which flies awfully. It isn't so pleasant to lie there while the scene is being finished by the other actors, and you in a 'dead faint' struggle yourself to keep from coughing.

"Or take the scene in Nero where you lie on the couch, and Nero pushes you off on the floor. To a certain extent you can make yourself fall comfortably, but if you don't, if your arms get twisted under you, or your neck is bent, you have to stand it and lie there 'dead' through a long scene. An actress who played the part told me that one night Nero forgot to push her off the couch, and there she was in a frightfully uncomfortable position, almost dead, and so far on the couch that she couldn't make herself fall off even if she would have dared to risk interrupting the scene. The dear people in the audience do not think of these things that are part of the work of pleasing them."—Boston Transcript.

Education and Long Life.

It is a common belief that education wears out the body and invigorates the mind. Also that nervous diseases are more common among civilized nations than among the savages, because the latter without education are able to attain and maintain physical perfection. It is claimed by myself, as well as other investigators, that the educated man, the man who studies most, while not physically strong, is yet not weak and is much more able to withstand a given period of nervous tension than is the man with the excellent physique and the moderate comprehension. In fact the intelligent mind may be physically sick all through life and yet live on in this misery to a good old age, while the strong physique breaks down early, and having no mental or nervous acumen dies very quickly and only at a moderate age.

Among the lowest African tribes, currently supposed to be almost devoid of nerves, nervous diseases are very common. In fact, entire tribes are mere wrecks and only live a little time. It is safe to say that with the advent of civilization these tribes would regain physical strength. My best study has been given to the prominent educators of the world, most of whom I find physically weak, but living on and doing work daily that would kill the ordinary laborer in less than three years.—Interview in St. Louis Globe-Democrat.

A Disastrous Appearance.

Nat Goodwin says that he was scared almost to death during his first appearance, and the story that he tells certainly gives color to that assertion.

"In 1873," he said, "I signed for the season to appear in juvenile roles at the Providence Opera House. In a melodrama called 'The Bottle' I was cast for the part of the horrid young villain who is forcing his unwelcome attention on the good young heroine. I thought I was right in it until I made my first speech, and then I discovered my mistake. In the first act I was supposed to suddenly come upon the heroine alone, and I deliver this line: 'So, I have you again, my sweet beauty! Why do you avoid me thus?' I had not more than delivered that line when the girl turned on me and let out an unearthly screech that scared me to death. It shook every line out of my head, and I stood as if I had been suddenly attacked with lockjaw. The heroine was quick to see my plight, however, and she went right on with the play, repeating my lines and then her own. As soon as I saw a chance I made a bolt for the stage door, and with all my makeup on took the next train back to Boston."—New York World.

The Extinct Northern "Sea Cow."

In the year 1751 the Behring explorers discovered gigantic species of rytina, or "northern sea cow." These enormous manatees were similar in general habits to those of the South American coast and were from 20 to 30 feet in length and from 10 to 20 feet in girth. They were very stupid, harmless beasts, and lived by browsing on seaweeds and other marine growths near the land. The sailors were not slow in finding out that a sea cow steak beat seal meat "all hollow." From 1754 until 1768 they were the principle food of the sailors and explorers on our western coast. This being the case, it is not at all surprising that the northern sea cow, never a very numerous species, should become extinct in the short space of 14 years. The last of the giant manatees was killed in September, 1768, a few months less than 14 years after the discovery of the first one.—St. Louis Republic.

Two Things That Scare a Negro.

Two seemingly harmless things excite the fear of the southern negro. One is the cracking of the finger joints; the other is to be stepped over as he lies prone upon the ground. The cracking of the finger joints seems to suggest to the negro imagination the rattling of a skeleton's bones, while to be stepped over is regarded as likely to bring bad luck to grown folks and to check the growth of children. A half grown negro boy will sternly command a playfellow who has stepped over his body to step back, in order that the spell may be removed.—New York Sun.

The Customer Ate Crackers.

"Will you please have these biscuits warmed for me?" asked a patron of a Sixth street restaurant of a waiter one night last week. "Very sorry, sir, but the cook is taking a nap, and I'm not allowed to open the oven doors," replied the knight of the tray. The customer ate crackers.—Cincinnati Enquirer.

At a Lawyers' Banquet.

At the banquet of the Virginia Bar association, the wine being slow in materializing, a certain judge obtained a bottle with great difficulty. Proud of his success he exclaimed: "Gentlemen, my strong right arm secured this champagne. I acquired it by feudal tenure."

"Well," remarked a brother lawyer as he poured out a copious draft, "we will soon hold it in free and common soakage (socage)."—Green Bag.

An Early Astronomical Teacher.

Thales, born 640 years B. C., was the first to note the four distinct divisions due to the positions of the sun—viz. the solstices and the equinoxes. He also taught that moonlight was simply reflected sunlight, and was the man who first made a prediction of a solar eclipse. —St. Louis Republic.

THE ECLIPSED SU.

OBSERVATIONS GATHERED FROM ECLIPSES OF THE SUN.

Conclusions of Eminent Astronomers Verified by Recent Photographs of the Sun's Corona as Seen During the Time That Its Solar Body Was Hidden.

When eclipsed, the majestic king of day condescendingly permits the structure of its mysterious appendages to be photographed and analyzed spectroscopically. Never in the whole history of astronomy has a finer opportunity for such work been afforded and so skillfully and completely improved by astronomers as that of the recent eclipse. The full harvest of their observation seems to promise some startling revelations.

M. Flammarion, the French astronomer, after reading the Chilian cable dispatches announcing Professor Pickering's recent eclipse observations, is reported to have said: "They confirm the theory that the sun is surrounded by a luminous atmosphere to a distance equal to one-eighth of the sun's diameter.' Scarcely a quarter of a century ago many astronomers questioned whether the solar atmosphere had any marked extension, and even doubted whether the corona was a solar appendage at all. But in the light of the late eclipse it is no astonishing that an astronomer expresses the opinion that the sun's atmosphere extends outward more than 100,000 miles.

The eruptive forces of the sun must be enormous indeed to eject the matter composing the flaming prominences not infrequently observed 40,000 miles broad, with an uprush of 225 miles a second and attaining occasionally an elevation of 400,000 miles. All prominences, Zollner and Respighi have shown, are originally phenomena of eruption, preceded by vertilinear jets, either vertical or oblique ascending to great heights and then seen falling back again toward the sun like the jets of our fountains. The eruptive prominences are, as Professor Young says, "generally associated with active sun spots." Since during the late eclipse these prominences were conspicuous in connection with an unusually brilliant and extended corona and great spottedness, the before seemingly established law that the corona's size and luminosity are in direct proportion to the sun's spot producing activity is strikingly corroborated.

Professor Schaeberle cabled from Chili that his eclipse observations confirm his mechanical theory of the corona, which regards this vast appendage as composed of streams of matter ejected with initial velocities of 350 miles a second from the sun by forces which are most active near the sun spot zones. Indications of such eruptive action have been often observed in the higher regions of the prominences. A further confirmation of this theory is that the corona in outline resembled that which Professor Schaeberle predicted some months ago. As far back as the eclipse of 1870 Mr. Brothers noted that "prominences were most numerous on the side of the sun where the corona was brightest," an evidence that the coronal matter is not less than that of the prominences ejected from the sun.

Mr. Proctor, discussing the observations of that eclipse, concluded: "I conceive we have now clear evidence of a form of action—but whether eruptive, electrical or repulsive is not yet obvious—exerted outward to enormous distances by the sun and with maximum energy over the spot zones, but local, variable and probably intermittent."

It will be seen, then, that Professor Schaeberle's theory, though by no means established, accords with old observations. No other explanation of the corona has been offered save that which attributes it to reflection from myriads of incandescent meteors or cosmical dust circulating around the sun. But this hypothesis has never been supported. If the corona were chiefly due to meteoric dust revolving around the sun, we should certainly expect to see it regular, and not as it generally appears, gapped, quadrilateral or four rayed, with immense wings or extensions. There seems, therefore, to be no other inference possible but that which telescopic scrutiny has long suggested—that the corona is originated and maintained by countless ejections issuing from beneath and flung through the photosphere by the sun's vertical or volcanic forces.

If the final study of the coronal photographs obtained sustain this view, science will have at least a working hypothesis for the determination of the cyclical variations of solar heat and the corresponding effects upon terrestrial temperatures and climates. The theory in question obviously opens up a new and fascinating inquiry into the anomalies of the earth's seasons which are due to variations of solar activity. We seem to be thus happily led to the very threshold of one of the grandest discoveries of modern science, which promises when developed to yield a rich harvest of practical results.

Now that most numerous and perfect photographs of all the principal appendages of the sun have been secured in Chili and Africa, astronomers should give their best energies to the study of the data. No problem they can now attack can be of greater interest or importance to science and the world.—New York Herald.

KNOWLEDGE

Brings comfort and improvement and tends to personal enjoyment when rightly used. The many, who live better than others and enjoy life more, with less expenditure, by more promptly adopting the world's best products to the needs of physical being, will attest the value to health of the pure liquid laxative principles embraced in the remedy, Syrup of Figs.

Its excellence is due to its presenting in the form most acceptable and pleasant to the taste, the refreshing and truly beneficial properties of a perfect laxative; effectually cleansing the system dispelling colds, headaches and fevers and permanently curing constipation. It has given satisfaction to millions and met with the approval of the medical profession because it acts on the Kidneys, Liver and Bowels without weakening them and it is perfectly free from every objectionable substance.

Syrup of Figs is for sale by all druggists in fifty and $1 bottles, but it is manufactured by the California Fig Syrup Co. only, whose name is printed on every package, also the name, Syrup of Figs, and being well informed, you will not accept any substitute if offered.

Wanted—A Broken Down Race Horse.

Alexander Jones, the richest man on the island of Barbadoes, wants an American race horse to beat the Jamaica thoroughbreds that have been carrying everything before them at the Bridgetown barracks. He doesn't want a Salvator, or a Lamplighter, or a Tammany. A horse that can go a mile in about 1:46 is good enough. The Fiorenzi of the Caribbees has a record of 1:49. Mr. Jones always insists on a pedigree, however. He isn't particular about the horse. The Barbadians are "sleuth" on pedigrees. Four years ago a Clifton selling plater—than which there is no more miserable creature on earth—was shipped to a firm in Bridgetown, and nearly all the Jamaica thoroughbreds were driven off the island by him. He swept everything before him. If we could induce the Guttenburg and Gloucester legions to emigrate to Barbadoes with their wretched brutes, something would be gained.—New York Tribune.

A Prominent Contractor's Indorsement.

LOS ANGELES, Cal., Feb 23, 1893.

Gents.—Yours of recent date is at hand and contents noted. I gave your catarrh cure a testimony last October in regard to how long I had catarrh and how I was cured, but will gladly give another and make affidavit to it before a Notary Public, but I wish to make a change in my former statement, as I see you have the quoted as having had it for eight years while I had it for twelve, and have suffered as only one afflicted can suffer. I was cured by your catarrh cure after having been under treatment with some of the noted physicians and specialists in New York and San Francisco, and receiving only temporary relief from them. I am a contractor and builder in this city and for the last three months have been timbering a tunnel for the city which necessitated my being in the water for about eight hours a day, and after all of this I have no symptoms of return of the catarrh, and am thoroughly convinced the cure is permanent. I take pleasure in telling any and all inquirers what your catarrh cure has done for me. Gratefully yours,

J. J. MAHONEY.

J. J. Mahoney, being first duly sworn, deposes and says that the foregoing testimonial is true in every respect. J. J. MAHONEY.

Notary Public in and for the County of Los Angeles, Cal.
